

I urge you in the strongest possible terms NOT to further erode the rules regarding mass ownership of media outlets. It is overly obvious to me, and to many others, that the more outlets one company owns the less the company is concerned with the quality, INDEPENDENCE, diversity and accuracy of the media that emanates from those outlets. Money becomes a far greater concern than does service to the community. Clear Channel is a perfect example of this phenomenon: their consolidation of so many radio stations has devastated the quality of the individual stations.
